Robert has been working in the telecommunication & cloud data industry for about 4 years. His goal is to educate resellers and customers on Seagate's Lyve Mobile services, including transferring large data sets fast and safe from location to location while saving time and costs. He is especially focused on partner engagement and reaching out to resellers within the Climb partnership while expanding to new resellers and customers in different industries. There are no limitations on where or what Seagate Lyve mobile can be used for.
